

Ann Wislowski, MSN, RN

Ann Wislowski is a nurse with a background in surgical-trauma intensive care and vascular surgery. She is currently an adjunct professor at the University of Wyoming Fay W. Whitney School of Nursing, and a Ph.D. student at the University of Colorado College of Nursing. Her academic area of interest is high-altitude physiology, with a focus on cognitive changes occurring at high altitude. Ms. Wislowski is passionate about teaching and research in the field of Wilderness Medicine, particularly for nurses and nursing students. She has volunteered for Albany County Sherriff's Search and Rescue and is an avid climber, hiker, mountain biker, and snowshoer.